STATEMENTCommissioner for Patents
P.O. Box 1450

Dear Sir:

In response to the Decision on petition mailed on May 21, 2008, the undersigned provides the following statement and evidences.

The above identified application became abandoned as of March 11, 2003 for failure to reply to the Office action mailed on December 10, 2002.

However, the applicants did not receive nor were aware of the Office action of December 10, 2002 until May 2006.

This application was filed via postal mail from Taiwan by the two inventors themselves. After filing the application, they did not receive any communications from the USPTO. As lack of experience, they waited for a long time before deciding to hire a Taiwanese patent firm, United China International Patent & Trademark Office, to look into this matter. On September 22, 2005, United China International Patent & Trademark Office sent me a letter (Evidence 1), asking me to check the status of this application.

After receiving the letter of September 22, 2005, I contacted the USPTO via telephone in the hope of locating this application. I talked to a staff of the initial examination department over the phone, she (I did not have a record of her name) tried to search this application by inventors'.

Docket No. UCIP163
US App. No. 09/771,516

name, the title of invention, and the possible filing date, but could not find any application that matches. I reported this search result to United China International Patent & Trademark Office in a letter dated October 20, 2005 (Evidence 2). At this point of time, it appeared that this application could be located and probably was lost.

On May 26, 2006, United China International Patent & Trademark Office sent me a letter (Evidence 3), asking me to file a new application for the same invention if the original application could not be found in USPTO.

After receiving the letter of May 26, 2006, I searched the USPTO database again. Somehow, this time I was able to find out that this application was received on January 17, 2001 and assigned an application 09/771,516, but was already abandoned by the USPTO. I reported this search result to United China International Patent & Trademark Office in a letter dated May 26, 2006 (Evidence 4). In the same letter, I informed the applicants that an unintentionally abandoned can be revived.

On June 6, 2008, United China International Patent & Trademark Office sent me a letter (Evidence 5), confirming that the applicants wish to revive this application.

On June 6, 2008, I sent United China International Patent & Trademark Office a letter (Evidence 6), forwarding two statements for the inventors to sign.

Not receiving the signed statements of the inventors, I filed a petition for reviving unintentionally abandoned application on June 22, 2006. The petition of June 22, 2006 was dismissed by a Decision dated February 20, 2007.

I filed a renewed petition on April 19, 2007. The renewed petition was dismissed by a Decision dated May 21, 2008. In reply, a second renewed petition is filed herewith.

From the above explanation and the facts shown by Evidences 1-6, it is clear that the abandonment was never intentional, and there is no intentional delay in reviving this application.

Revival of this application is requested.

Re: US Patent Application

Title: PROTECTIVE CIRCUIT FOR A SUPERSONIC HUMIDIFIER

Dear Mr. Kuo:

Thank you for your letter of September 22, 2005.

Per your request, we contacted the patent office. The staff of the patent office searched their internal date base of filed patent applications according to the inventors' name and the title of invention, and the possible filing date. But she could not find any application that matches the above identified application.

It is possible that the patent office never received this application. I noticed that the applicant paid the filing fee with a check. If you can find the canceled check stamped by the patent office, that would be a definite prove that the application was received by the patent office. Otherwise, it is will be very difficult to locate the application.

Should you need further help or have any questions regarding this matter, please contact us.

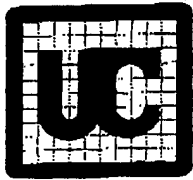

Sincerely,

Dr. Jiawei Huang

Application No. : 09/771,516
Your Ref. : US-P-163 (U89-194)
Our Ref. : UCIP163

Dear Mr. Kuo:

Thank you for your letter of May 26, 2006 regarding the above-identified application.

After receiving your letter, we searched the USPTO database again and found the following information:

This application was received by the US patent office and assigned an application No. 09/771,516, and was published on July 18, 2002 with the publication No. US 2002/0093776 A1 (a copy of the published application is attached hereto for your reference). The filing date of this application is January 17, 2001 (but your check for the filing fee was dated January 19, 2001).

This application is currently abandoned for failure to respond to an Office Action, which was mailed to the applicant on December 10, 2002. A Notice of Abandonment was mailed on July 30, 2003. See the attached Transaction History sheet downloaded from the USPTO website.

As you already know, under U.S. law and practice, an UNINTENTIONALLY abandoned application can be revived. To revive an unintentionally abandoned application, a petition must be filed. Official petition fee is $750 for a small entity.

It appears that the applicant did not receive the Office Action of December 10, 2002. If you can prove this, we will be able to file a petition to withdraw the holding of abandonment. For such a petition, no petition fee is required. To prove non-receipt of the Office Action, you need to submit a copy of your docket record for December of 2002, January, February, and March of 2003 where the non-received Office Action would have been entered had it been received and docketed by you or your client. Such petition is difficult to get granted by the patent office.

If the applicant wishes to revive this application, we must file a petition as soon as possible without any further delay. Since the applicant has been informed of the abandonment by this letter, further delay in reviving this application may make the unintentional abandonment become intentional, and an intentionally abandoned application cannot be revived.

As there is an Office Action pending, when filing petition to revive this application, we need to file a response to the Office Action. As the Office Action of December 10, 2002 is not available from the website of U.S. patent office. We will request a copy of the Office Action when filing the petition.

We will charge $300 for docketing and reviving the application and an additional fee later for preparing a response to the Office Action.

Should you have any questions regarding this matter, please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,

Dr. Jiawei Huang
